

As most all power lines are unshielded, Access BPL would have no trouble using them as giant antennae to generate interference across the broad spectrum of radio frequencies that Public Safety Agencies, the military, private & commercial aircraft operators, commercial broadcasters and HAM radio operators use.

Based on studies already done in the UK and Japan, there is plenty of evidence that Access BPL will NOT stay-put on the electric power grid but will disseminate into the atmosphere and cause problems. I urge you NOT to allow US power companies to proceed with this.
